
ATF-Cleaner.exe

(Feb 03, 2006 at 04:44 PM) - Contributed by Administrator - Last Updated (Feb 27, 2008 at 09:37 PM)

ATF-Cleaner.exe was once upon a time just my personal temp file cleaner. There became a need for a good temp file cleaner that could do the job safely and without removing files that are crucial to windows, so I decided I'd share it with the public.

ATF-Cleaner has recently picked up alot of interested in the various communities online.

ATF-Cleaners options are fairly straight forward and its simplicity is part of its charm.

The general instructions for its use on the forums are as follows:

Please download ATF Cleaner by Atribune. This program is for XP and Windows 2000 only. Double-click ATF-Cleaner.exe to run the program. Under Main choose: Select All. Click the Empty Selected button. If you use Firefox browser Click Firefox at the top and choose: Select All. Click the Empty Selected button. NOTE: If you would like to keep your saved passwords, please click No at the prompt. If you use Opera browser Click Opera at the top and choose: Select All. Click the Empty Selected button. NOTE: If you would like to keep your saved passwords, please click No at the prompt. Click Exit on the Main menu to close the program. For Technical Support, double-click the e-mail address located at the bottom of each menu.

This will remove all files from the items that are checked so if you have some cookies you'd like to save. please move them to a different directory first.

Notes for Windows Vista users:

On Windows Vista that "Windows Temp" is disabled, to empty "Windows Temp" ATF-Cleaner must be "Run as an Administrator". Prefetch has been disabled on Windows Vista. As I'm not sure the effects that emptying prefetch on Windows Vista will have for the time being I won't enable that function.